

Dragons

by Alloya

In the very beginning of earth's development before man stepped on to her surface, the Dragons were here. The Dragons of creation came into the space allocated for Gaia and wove the elements of earth, air, fire, earth and water to create the physical planet. Do not mistake these creatures as being myths, for they were real and powerful creative forces. They were immensely powerful beings, and simply through their presence they set in motion the cycles that would later become the weather patterns of Earth. They spiraled their bodies around and around until the pattern of creation was formed. When the planet began to drop in vibration in later times, they slept. It is as if the dragons created the landscape of the hills and mountains. It is no mistake that some of our mountain ranges resemble Dragons.

There are many places on this planet where the Dragons still sleep. This is the time for them to wake up. The Dragons hold in their bodies the codes on how to ascend planets into the light of the fifth dimension. They hold the secrets on how to transform this world. When the Dragons awaken, they will activate the codes present in the human d.n.a, aiding the transformation of this planet. It is not necessary that you go to these places in your physical bodies, as you can travel their astrally and still have the same affect. In your dream body you can travel to this place, awaken the Dragons, activate the codes and aid the planetary transformation. You may, or may not be aware of this process, it does not matter. The Dragons are bridges of sort, between the very high starry dimensions and the earthly realms. The Dragons have the ability to take very high information from the stars and anchor it into the matrix of the planet Earth.

If you are connected to the Dragons, then you are guided and inspired by very unique Earth energies, the energy of the Dragons. The Dragons brought their creative spark here to the space allocated to the Earth, to allow the planet, a space in which it could form into a physical being. They slept when the planet became more dense and moved from the etherical expression to one of dense physical matter. You are here now in a human body to access this information from the Dragons that sleep in the Earth. When you go on holidays or trips, you may find the energy of the place affecting your body in strange ways. Be open to this occurrence it will greatly transform your perception of reality. Your body holds the keys to awaken these Dragon energies, for the Dragons will be responsible for activating the next stage of the shift of this planet, and you are one of the main players in this drama.

Maybe you have not considered this Dragon connection before that is because the time is now! How can you contact the Dragon that you are, that sleeps. Be aware of places and especially mountains, big Dragons use large landscapes to hide themselves under, maybe a trip to the mountains would be your doorway into the realm of the Dragons. Dragon energy is very close to human vibration, they are fourth dimensional, they feel heavy in the body, be aware of when the sight goes cloudy and the body feels heavy. Open your self to the idea that it is Dragon energy and allow the communication to flow.

The Dragons are guardians of the Earth. They are an intricate part of Gaia's consciousness. We call them Dragons because to us that is the way, they show themselves. Our mind takes energies and creates images that will best represent them to us.

Everyone has a connection to the Dragon energy as they live on Earth, but you may have a special connection, as you may have been one of these beings. Now it is time to awaken the Dragon consciousness, that is within you .In your body and in your d.n.a there are particular codes, which will ignite and awaken, this will also awaken your Dragon energy on the planet. By aligning yourself with this energy, you not only fire codes within yourself but also codes within the planet. These codes are like triggers, which will fire information around your body and the body of the planet. This is greatly adding the shift into light, which is what, is happening on Earth, at this time. By awakening your Dragon, not only will you aid what is going on Earth but you will also raise the frequency of your body. Your atoms will begin to vibrate faster and faster. Then your atoms will be able to hold its integrity, as it shifts in consciousness, from a third dimensional expression to a fifth dimensional expression.

It is very advisable before you begin to open up to this Dragon energy to cleanse the body of toxins, as the Dragon energy being very close to the third dimension, will affect the toxin levels in the body. Maybe a fast of a few days and drinking plenty of water will remove the build up of toxins in the body, and you will then be cleansed and ready to align with your Dragon energy.

You need to spend sometime in meditation, allowing the energy of your Dragon consciousness to come to you, and move you in a new direction. Dragon consciousness is very dense indeed, it may not be possible for you to communicate with this being in words, usually they communicate by feelings, not emotions but sensations in the body. You may feel very heavy in your body whilst you communicate with your Dragon.

In your Dragon form you are very immense and powerful. It is time for you to step into your power and do the job you came here on Earth to do.

It is no mistake that the ley lines of the planet are called dragon lines in some cultures. They are the backbone of the planet and hold together the matrix that supports the physical form of the planet. They also carry within them the d.n.a code that supports humanity in its ascension to the fifth dimension.

Your bodies d.n.a has information as codes, design plans for the ascension of the planet. Your body is beginning the change and you are moving into realms of the later stages of ascension. The cells of your body is holding higher and higher energies much more comfortably. There are certain things that you found whilst these energies merged and vibrated within you, that aided you. There were many moments though you did not hear them speak to you in words, you heard them softly speaking to you through your intuition. You may sometimes feel that you are not being guided by the Dragons, but they rarely speak to you in words, they prefer, dreams, visuals and feelings. They are deeply feeling beings, they have given some of themselves to you and thus you are very sensitive to other people's energies because of them. Now that you are totally here it time for you to connect with the planet. Even though it feels like you are earthed and connected, there is to come an even deeper connection. There is a level of consciousness that you are yet to connect and be a part of. This is the level of dragon consciousness.

Once you have connected fully to this Dragon energy, you will be able to download the information that you carry into the matrix of the planet, then it is time to perform practices that aid your awakening to the realization that you are creating your own reality. It is time for light workers to wake up and start creating the reality that they desire the most. You know how to do this within yourself. What would you like to manifest in your life. See your desire and create the reality that you want in your heart. Start small and see only your success.

You have been on earth a long time. You have had many human incarnations, in a multitude of different roles, races etc. However lets look at what you were when you first came to earth. In the very beginning of earth's development before man stepped on to her surface, you were here. The dragons of creation came into the space allocated for Gaia and wove the elements of earth, air, fire and water to create the physical planet. Do not mistake these creatures as being myths, for they were real and powerful creative forces. You were an immensely powerful being, and simply through your presence you set in motion the cycles that would later become the weather patterns of earth. You spiraled your body around and around until the pattern of creation was formed. You later projected yourself on to this plane in a Dragon body. When the planet began to drop in vibration in later times, you as this being slept. It is as if the dragons created the landscape of the hills and mountains. It is no mistake that some of our mountain ranges resemble dragons. There is one place on this planet where you, as this dragon still sleep. However this is the time for you wake up. The dragons hold in their bodies the codes on how to ascend planets into the light of the fifth dimension. You hold the secrets on how to transform this world. You need to awaken this aspect of self, it its awakening it will activate codes present in the human d.n.a, aiding the transformation of this planet. It is not necessary that you go there in physical body, as you can travel their astrally and still have the same affect. In your dream body you will travel to this place, activate the codes and aid the planetary transformation. You may, or may not be aware of this process, it is no matter.

The Dragons do not really have wings and breathe fire, as we perceive them; this is only the image our imagination uses to translate a universal energy, into a form we can understand. This Dragon energy is the most ancient expression of the Source that has ever manifested in this universe. The Dragons come from the void, they are the mystery. How can you create something from nothing? , the Dragons will show you how.

“Planet Earth lay dreaming her dreams. She was a radiant beauty, a green and blue sphere, spinning around the Sun. Earth was an exquisite gem hanging in a spiraling galaxy, an inter-dimensional doorway to other worlds. The Earth was young and untamed, playing and dancing in the void, her coat of fire swirled around, with sparkling trails. Among this feast of flames, in the magic of the first Days, Dragon was born. Dragon made its way through the burning wilderness, flying, splashing in rivers of shining red lava, creating its first paths, on the shy hardness of a fresh ground. Earth subsided in her fiery birth; the fire disappearing little by little from the surface of the great sphere. Another kind of life came, populating the seas and shores. But the power of that primary fire remained, like embers forever glowing, in the eyes of the watchers, the Dragons.” – taken from my new book, “Her Perspective “.

Once the Dragons had created the body of the planet, they too became a part of her, they slept within her body. You can see evidence of these Dragons in the forms of certain Mountains. The body of the Dragons make up the landscape. The land of this planet is not entirely third dimensional, it is more pliable than that. It is not stuck in permanent form or structure and therefore over time it can come to form shapes and images within its landscape, to represent the ancient beings that took part in earth's birth and development. I know this is a lot to take in and understand, but look at this with your imagination and not the limitation of your rational mind. The rational mind does not know anything about other dimensional energies, as it is stuck in the 3D. Expand your mind and allow yourself to realize that on another dimensional level, you are part of an immense Dragon consciousness.

This part of your soul wants to come forward into your life and have an influence on you as a human being. You are living on a planet that is beginning a transformation from a 3D focus and vibration to a 5D focus and vibration. What this means to us as human beings in that now is the time to get in touch with all the different aspects that make up our soul and integrate them into the body, into the very d.n.a. This integrating will activate certain codes and instructions within the d.n.a, which will allow our physical bodies to raise its atomic vibration and allow us to become divine human beings.

By introducing you to this aspect of your soul, I am activating this integration process within you. This Dragon that you are on another level is coming forward, as you have work to do with such a being. Not only do the mountains emanate their energy, but also the rivers and oceans. There is a network of energy that runs through this entire planet, similar to our nervous system. These Ley Lines are power lines, which form a network across the whole planet. Some people can dowse for these lines and can harness the energy of such lines to heal and balance. They are also called Dragon lines, if you look into many of the Chinese myths and legends you will find that they refer to the primeval forces of nature as being Dragons.

There are places where these Dragon lines meet and these are often recognized by man as being sacred places. Often churches and the like are built on top of these vortexes, which are a crossing of the lines. Around the area in which you live are many vortexes, which are in need of healing and balancing. In times past people have harnessed the energy of these places, and have not always used it for good purposes. Many of these Dragon vortexes are either blocked by the insertion of metal upon the entrance point into the vortex or they are still functioning but are very negative. Your Dragon self wants to come forward and make itself known to your body so that it can integrate and then guide you to do some work on these blocked and negative Dragon vortexes.

Dragon energy is very heavy and can make the body feel very full and tired. When you work with the Dragon energy it can be very difficult at first, as the body gets used to such an immense energy. That would make sense of why you are feeling so tired at certain times in your day, this is the influence of the Dragon on your body. It is difficult to communicate with words or pictures with these beings; they tend to speak in a language that can only be felt in the body as bodily sensations. Notice your body more, and ask yourself in those tired moments why I feel so tired. Where in your body is the heaviness and what does it really feel like. If you tune into your body in this way, then your mind will begin to translate the language of the Dragons into a form of either words or pictures so you can begin to communicate with this being.

You have work to do on the land, your Dragon self is asking this of you. It is going to take some time before you really are ready to do this. Take your time, Dragon energy is slow, there is no rush- all in its right time. The Dragon wants to anchor in the body and guide you to certain places in your area, that need healing and balancing. Once you have gotten to this point you will be guided to stand in certain places and allow the energy of the place to come into your body to be transformed and released. This is not an easy job, you may have emotions, which are dense, and powerful, your head may not understand. Do not worry your Dragon will guide you through your intuition and bodily feelings and you will know exactly what to do. It may also get uncomfortable in the body, do not think that your weird symptoms are an illness, this is not the truth. Any bodily symptoms at this time are only a result of the Dragon energy coming into your body. You will be a natural as you have worked with this Dragon energy on the land many times before. This is the soul intention for this lifetime to allow you to step into your power, as an earth healer. Just like you were in many of your previous lives.

The Dragon consciousness that you are on this level, sleeps in the centre of the planet, I have seen it there. I have been on a journey into the centre of the Earth, and on my journey, I passed through many levels of consciousness. As I got to the very core, where the crystal lies, I saw it surrounded on all sides by sleeping Dragons.

Now how this will manifest I have no idea. It is meant to be a mystery. But there are instructions for you, to do in preparation for this awakening. You must cleanse your energy body of negative power. Now when I say negative, I do not mean negative as in bad, but negative as in electricity. You will reverse the polarity of your energies. You are being requested to spin your chakras and allow them to bring up energies, which are magnetic in nature, but are holding old patterns and codes that need to be cleared, in order for there to be room, for more evolved information in light, to settle in the cells of your body. Imagine that your body and its cells are like a hard drive in a computer. You cannot put any new software on it, because it is full of old out of date data and software. So in order to create room for new information coming into your d.n.a and hard drive, you will have to cleanse the system of old programmes. Now these programs have little or anything to do with your personality or sense of self, this is deeper in the body. You have done enough of the process, to clear the emotional body, now the very cells of your body are preparing themselves for change. You are going to begin to prepare to ascend.

You must begin working with your chakras, meditate if you can, on each chakra point in the body and allow the energy to build and take your focus into the chakra and allow it to show you where it is out of balance, just like the process in a way, but working on each chakra. Dance the energy of the chakra; create words to describe the energy it carries. Paint or draw mandalas to represent the chakras, find ways to express what is going on in your process, with each centre. Find books and read about them, do colour breathing with the appropriate chakra, and find new techniques and meditations for working with them. You can prepare your energy body, for this shift in consciousness, make it a daily routine of working in one way or another with the different points. Start with the chakra, which feels the most out of balance. You can find ways to know which one it is, if you do not trust your intuition, you can dowse for it with a pendulum, or through kinesiology.

The reason that you need to work on this level is, because when the Dragon consciousness wakes up in the centre of the planet, it will also awaken in the centre of you. It is sleeping in the cells of your body too. You need to be in balance in order to take the increase in energy. We all need to become more aware of being in balance or finding quick and easy ways to get back in balance, as the energy on the planet increases its frequency. If you are not in balance, you will become sick and tired. You have to find a way to combat your levels of negative stress. It is very important, that you meditate at this time, find a way to release stress and relax. As your Dragon consciousness awakens, you need to be in balance. It is not so difficult to achieve yet needs constant maintenance.
